

Bonus: Sith Sector Supplement

Was it really Destroyed?

It has long been said that the Sith Empire had been eradicated. Destroyed beyond all comprehension, and all of the people of this culture destroyed. But that is just a sweet bedtime story for the Republic that claims themselves victorious. There would be no possible way to destroy the entire Empire, disrupt it yes, but to seek out and destroy each and every single world the Sith Empire held in its grasp is simple good wishing. Even the Emperor knew that the Old Republic forces could not have destroyed the entire Empire, and sent many probe droids in the area of space where he thought this ancient culture might be. Though he did not find the ancient civilization it still exists, out there in uncharted areas of space beyond time. There the Sith live and still controlled much of the Wildspace beyond the furthest of the furthest hyperspace beacons.

There they wait patiently until one day they will have their revenge upon the rest of the galaxy.

"The Sith Controlled much of the Wildspace areas beyond the furthest of the furthest hyperspace beacons."

The Sith Sector

The new and the Old Sith Sector is an area loaded with many old and new secrets and mysteries. Whether the characters are smugglers looking for a new spot to sell and trade their wares, scouts looking for a big score, or Adventures looking for the Fabled Sith Empire, there is room for them in the Sith Sector.

Bellow: How the Remaining Known Sith Empire Relates to the rest of the Galaxy

